DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1,4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Park et al (US 6,920,602).

Claims 1 and 6

Park et al discloses a method and apparatus for choosing a connection-specific channel coding and/or interleaving scheme comprising:

requesting a specific communication connection over a radio interface between a mobile terminal and a base station of a cellular packet radio system (see col. 4, lines 44-47 describing a call setup), as part of said requesting a specific communication connection, communicating a request message said request message indicating a need for setting up a new radio bearer between the mobile terminal and the base station or changing the characteristics of an existing radio bearer between the mobile terminal and the base station, said request message further indicating a certain set of desired Quality of Service parameters selected by said mobile terminal based on an expected use of said specific communication connection, to be associated with said requested specific communication connection (col. 4, lines 40-43 describes that the message transmitted during the call setup refers to the QoS), allocating a channel coding and/or interleaving scheme for independent application to said specific communication connection based, at least in part on said desired Quality of Service parameters (see col. 2, lines 46-50 describing varying a channel encoding according to a QoS of data to transmit), mapping said desired set of Quality of Service parameters to a certain said allocated channel coding and/or interleaving scheme as a part of the allocation of the channel coding and/or interleaving scheme (providing a different channel encoding according to a different QoS is mapping the QoS parameters to a certain coding scheme) and communicating said allocated channel coding and/or interleaving scheme to the base station and the mobile terminal for them to independently apply said first channel coding and/or interleaving scheme for use in said specific communication connection (although not described explicitly, an agreed-upon channel coding and/or interleaving should be provided to both the base station and mobile station during the call setup so that the same channel coding and/or interleaving is used at either end of connection.

Claims 4 and 5.

Park et al further discloses the predetermined information between the mobile station and the base station may be varied during the corresponding service by data exchange (see col.4, lines 46-54), implying that a request message is communicated as a response to an observed need for setting up a new radio bearer between the mobile and base stations.

Allowable Subject Matter

Art Unit: 2611

3. Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
